How to Draw a Cat

1. Draw the big head

Draw one large round head shape in the middle. It is a little wider at the top and flatter at the bottom.

2. Add the chest shape

Under the head, draw a pointed chest shape. It curves out at the sides and comes to a soft point near the bottom.

3. Draw the front legs

Draw two straight front legs down from the chest. Add two rounded paws at the bottom, with short toe lines on each paw.

4. Add the ears

Draw two tall pointed ears on top of the head. Then add one curved line inside each ear.

5. Draw the eyes

Draw two big round eyes on the face. Fill in the pupils but leave small white circles and curved highlights inside them.

6. Add the nose and whiskers

Draw a small nose in the middle, then draw a short line down and two curved mouth lines. Add three whiskers on each side of the face.

7. Draw the tail

On the right side, draw a long tail that curls up, around, and back down. Keep the end rounded.

8. Finish the cat

Go over the body sides, the paws, and the tail base with darker lines. Then trace any other lines you want to keep and rub out the pale dotted guides.

Tips

- Keep the first guide lines light so they are easy to rub out.
- Make both eyes the same size for a calm, cute look.
- Round paws and soft curves help the cat look friendly.
